

LETICIA HERRERA

SALTILLO

MEXICO

Leticia Herrera is a Mexican Mixed media artista residing in McKinney, Texas. Herrera's introduction to the art world began early in her life inspired by her Uncle, famous Spanish painter Jose Morales. Deep inside her she always knew she wanted to be an artist and experimented on her own with different mediums throughout her younger years. Over time, Herrera's work has changed and become more and more abstract. She has continued to gain more confidence and experiment with more freedom of execution, creating striking images that go beyond the obvious to something even deeper. Her recent work is inspired not only by the artist's Mexican roots but by current issues and daily emotions of herself and those who are around her.
